

TRIBUTE

Is Paid to the Memory of the Distinguished Dead.

Harrison Was a Statesman

And Was Recognized as One of the Foremost Americans of His Time. Ex-President Cleveland's Tribute to Former Political Opponent.

Washington, March 14.—President McKinley and wife, and Secretary Cortelyou and Dr. Rixey leave for Indianapolis this evening to attend the funeral of ex-President Benjamin Harrison, whose death occurred at Indianapolis at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

WORDS OF PRAISE

From the Press of the Country Without Regard to Politics.

New York, March 14.—An editorial comment is published here and all over the country regardless of politics in the praise of General Harrison. The Washington Post (Independent) says: "Mr. Harrison cared nothing for popularity in the cheap and tawdry sense. He never trimmed the white sails of his career to catch the vulgar breeze. The goal toward which he pressed was as clear and simple as the sky. He loved the people and they looked responsive to their last associations. He drew his sword for them in hour that tried men's souls and kept it as bright as Arthur's to the glorious end. The trick stooping was outside of his philosophy."

SYMPATHY

For the Brave Boers Was Expressed in His Dying Words.

New York, March 14.—A New York World special from Indianapolis says that General Harrison's dying words were an expression of sympathy for the brave Boers. "The great heart," the dispatch avers, "was grieved at the injustice done the poor farmers of the Boer nation by the powerful English Empire and to his friends he spoke so often of the pity for this tragedy among nations; that it weighed heavily on his mind more than any other question of statecraft."

PROCLAMATION

That Was Issued by President McKinley This Morning.

Washington, March 14.—The President this morning issued the following: "Benj. Harrison, president of the United States from 1889 to 1893, died yesterday at 4:45 p. m., at his home in Indianapolis. In his death the country has been deprived of one of its greatest citizens. A brilliant soldier in his young manhood, he gained fame and rank advancement by energy and valor. As a lawyer he rose to be a leader of the bar. In the senate he at once took and retained high rank as an orator and a legislator and in the high office of President, he displayed extraordinary gifts as an administrator and a statesman. In public and private life, he set a shining example for his countrymen. In testimony I do hereby direct that the flags on the executive mansion and the several departmental buildings be draped at half staff for a period of thirty days and that suitable military and naval honors under orders of the secretaries of war and navy be rendered on the day of the funeral."

THE FUNERAL

Will be Held From Presbyterian Church Sunday at 2 O'clock.

Indianapolis, March 14.—It was definitely settled this morning by the state officials and friends of General Harrison, that the funeral shall be held at 2 o'clock Sunday, from the First Presbyterian church, and the President's Proclamation.

Washington, March 14.—President McKinley issued a proclamation to the people, notifying them of General Harrison's death and setting out in becoming terms his virtues and characteristics. He also ordered salutes to be fired at the various army posts the day of the funeral and on shipboard when the news is received. The secretary of war and the secretary of the navy sent out special notices to soldiers and sailors conveying the president's directions in this matter. Little more can be done officially, as the act of March 3, 1893, specifically forbids the draping of public buildings in mourning or the closing of the executive departments on the occasion of the death of an ex-official.

The late President Harrison was personally known to every member of the cabinet, and all its members in the city spoke in praise of his magnificent intellectuality and rugged force of character.

President McKinley will attend the funeral of General Harrison. He will leave here accompanied by Mrs. McKinley and Secretary Cortelyou. The party will stop at Canton for a day or more and Mrs. McKinley will remain there while the president and Mr. Cortelyou proceed to Indianapolis. The funeral will be so arranged as to enable the president to leave Canton Saturday night for Indianapolis and return immediately after the funeral. It is not expected that any of the members of the cabinet will go.

His Conscience Never Slept.

Indianapolis, March 14.—Ex-Attorney General W. H. Miller, who was so closely associated with the late president in his official, professional and social life, said: "General Harrison was a man of the highest intellectuality, of great will power, of tireless industry, with a genius for details; and all his faculties were under the guidance of a conscience that never slept. He believed in the right as a ruling principle among nations, in statesmanship and politics no less than in business and private life. He bowed to the limitations of the constitution and the laws as binding alike upon president and citizen."

Cleveland's Tribute.

Princeton, N. J., March 14.—Former President Cleveland made the following statement on the death of former President Harrison: "I am exceedingly moved by the sad intelligence. Not one of our countrymen should for a moment fail to realize the services which have been performed in their behalf by the distinguished dead. In high public office he was guided by patriotism and devotion to duty, often at the sacrifice of temporary popularity, and in private station, his influence and example were always in the direction of decency and good citizen ship."

Low Wallace's Mite.

Indianapolis, March 14.—General Low Wallace, almost a lifelong friend of ex-President Harrison, said: "The news was like a blow over my heart. Ten days ago Benjamin Harrison was the foremost man in America. I make no exception. He had every quality of greatness—a courage that was dauntless, foresight almost to prophesy, a mind clear, strong and of breadth by nature, strengthened by constant dealing with subjects of national import, subjects of world-wide interest."

A Second Gladstone.

Philadelphia, March 14.—John Wanamaker, who was postmaster general during President Harrison's administration, said: "Benjamin Harrison will ever stand as a rare type of American character. In the combination of gifts he possessed he approached Gladstone nearer than any other American statesman. He lived in a light that made every question of duty clear to him, and out of his clear brain and apt speech he shed his light on every subject he discussed."

Whitcomb Riley's Observation.

Indianapolis, March 14.—James Whitcomb Riley says: "To me the personality of General Harrison appeared in a peculiar manner. From my earliest childhood he had been a conspicuous figure on the horizon of my world. One of the characteristics of General Harrison always commended my profound respect—his fearless independence and stand for what he believed to be right and just, often in the face of adverse opinion of his own political party."

Foreign Comment.

London, March 14.—All the morning papers publish long memoirs of the late General Benjamin Harrison and editorials dealing with his career. The Daily Chronicle says: "It may be long before America finds another president as capable, honorable and conservative." The Standard expresses the opinion that General Harrison has not left a deep mark in the history of his country, but, like all the papers, it pays a tribute to his high personal character.

THE WEATHER.

Washington, March 14.—For Ohio, occasional snows or rains tonight; fair Friday, except occasional snows along northeastern lake shore.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

Chicago, March 14.—Cattle 7,500 strong; hogs 22,000, 5 cents higher; sheep 8,000 stronger.

Pay Train Attacked by Robbers, But the Robbers Were Routed and the $75,000 in Gold Was Saved.

Manila, March 14.—Paymaster Major Pickett, with $75,000 in gold and an escort of 10 mounted men from Company D of the Sixteenth regiment infantry, was attacked by a party of 30 bandits on the road between Bayombong and Echague, in the province of Nueva Viscaya. A hard fight ensued and the robbers were routed. The funds were saved. Corporal Hooker was killed and a private was wounded. Lieutenant John L. Hines, with Company K, Second United States infantry, encountered a body of insurgents south of Buena Vista, Marinduque island, one American being killed and three wounded. The insurgents lost six killed and 13 wounded. A combined effort is being made to crush the insurgents in Marinduque island, and 10 expeditions are out.

A detachment of the Forty-sixth volunteer infantry captured five native officers and 30 men, together with 47 rifles, near Indang, province of Cavite. Colonel Robert L. Bullard of the Thirty-ninth volunteer infantry, has received the surrender of the insurgent colonel Bopen, with two officers, 53 men and 25 rifles, at Batayan, province of Batangas. Lieutenant Thomas L. Sherburne of the Thirty-third volunteer infantry, with a company of native scouts, defeated 40 insurgents in the mountains beyond Santa Maria, province of South Ilocos.

Major Carey of the Forty-second volunteer infantry captured one insurgent officer and two brass cannon near Morong. Major Elmore F. Taggart of the Twenty-eighth volunteer infantry captured about 25 miles south of Cagayan, the following members of the revolutionary cabinet: Asaelino Abellera, military chief; Gusto Jackson, Ramon Nerz, Santiago Costello, Ramon Chavez and Fausto Pinedo.

Education of Young Filipinos.

Cincinnati, March 14.—The Business Men's club of this city recently appointed a committee to investigate the recommendations of Hon. William H. Taft, president of the Philippine commission, for the education of Filipino young men in this country. This committee has made a report in favor of this city. Judge Taft in writing to the committee said: "Nothing can more closely weld the people of these islands to us than to secure the education in America of their bright young men."

Natives Struck.

Manila, March 14.—The native employees of the Manila-Dagupan railroad have struck for a 50 per cent increase in wages, and the company has offered an advance of 17 per cent. Native engineers received only $30 per month and conductors, firemen and brakemen less. When the native engineers struck the company employed Americans at $125 a month.

Burned at the Stake.

Corsicana, Tex., March 14.—John Henderson, 22, the negro who cruelly murdered Mrs. Conway Younger, near this city, last week, was taken by citizens from a train while being conveyed to Waco for safe keeping and taken back to this city. The negro made a full confession after arriving. He said he attempted to assault Mrs. Younger, and upon her resisting he slashed her to pieces with a knife. The mob tied him to an iron rail, piled wood about, saturated the pile with oil and in the presence of an immense crowd applied the match. The wretch died in dreadful agony and his struggles were fearful to behold.

Forged Paper Held.

Niles, Mich., March 14.—The directors of the suspended First National bank filed a declaration against C. A. Johnson, the missing cashier of the bank, alleging that forgeries amounting to $100,000 against leading citizens of this county have been committed by him. It was found that there was a great quantity of forged paper held by the institution. Bank Examiner Sheldon filed papers with the county clerk at St. Joseph attacking all of Johnson's property.

ONE SCALDED TO DEATH

And Another So Badly Injured That Death is Feared.

Toledo, Mar. 14.—Four year old Johnnie Walker in the absence of his mother fell into a boiler and was scalded to death. His 12 year old sister in trying to rescue him was so badly burned she may die.

BOLD ATTEMPT

Made to Hold Up a National Bank Cashier.

Harrisburg, March 14.—In a bold attempt that was made at Halifax, twenty-one miles from here, to hold up a national bank cashier, Ryan, the latter in an effort to grapple with two robbers this morning, was shot in the breast and dangerously wounded. The robbers were caught and lodged in jail. Ryan's brave defense may cost him his life.

NEGOTIATIONS

For the Surrender of Boer Army

Are Rapidly Progressing Between Generals.

The "Unconditional Surrender" Policy of the English Government Understood to Have Been Greatly Modified.

London, March 14.—It is understood that there has been an active interchange of telegrams between the home government and the cape authorities and Lord Kitchener concerning the negotiations with General Botha, and also that immense quantities of foodstuffs are reaching Pretoria by way of Delagoa bay on which to feed the Boers when the final surrender is made. In addition to the modifications in the "unconditional surrender" policy it is understood the government has authorized Lord Kitchener to give a distinct promise that the government of the new colonies shall culminate in a complete grant of free institutions.

ANTHRACITE

Mine Workers are Now in Session.

Six Hundred Delegates are Present.

The Convention Called to Order by President Mitchell Who Refuses to Discuss the Strike Question.

Hazleton, Pa., March 14.—President Mitchell called the Mine Workers' convention to order in executive session. The report of the committee on credentials showed presence of 600 delegates, representing 318 local organizations. President Mitchell said in an interview that "As the convention has not yet taken up the matter, I cannot talk of the possibility of a strike. We are entitled to a joint conference because that is the only humane, scientific and up-to-date method of settling labor difficulties." The operators refuse to recognize the convention.

VERDICT

Was Commended by the Justice.

A Texas Lynching Case Was Investigated

And the People Who Did the Deed Were Extolled for the Act. The Punishment Was Warranted.

Corsicana,, March 14.—Justice H. G. Roberts held an inquest over the remains of Henderson, the negro that was burned at the stake, and gave the following verdict: "I find that the deceased came to his just death at the hands of an incoherent and outraged feeling of the best people in the United States, the citizens of Navarro and adjoining counties. The evidence, as well as the confession of guilt by the deceased, shows that his punishment was fully merited and commendable."

CZAR

Speaks Through His Representative at Washington.

Does Not Want Manchuria

And Will Remove His Troops from There as Soon as Order is Restored, Provided That the Other Powers Do Not Interfere.

Washington, March 14.—The Russian ambassador, Count Cassini, was seen concerning the reiterated reports as to Russia's designs on Manchuria. The ambassador first called attention to the Chinese invasion of Russian territory last summer. There is a great stretch of border between the two empires, about 8,000 kilometers in length, and over the Manchurian border the Chinese forces, he said, poured, committing depredations and threatening Russian interests. This invasion was such, the ambassador said, that Russia at that time would have been justified by international law in declaring war against China and taking Manchuria. But Russia did not at that time take Manchuria, this being, the ambassador said, the best answer to the present reports of Russia's purposes to absorb Manchuria. As to the Russian troops now in Manchuria the ambassador said: "Why are German, British, American and other troops in Peking? There seems to be no surprise about this, and yet it is exactly parallel to the presence of Russian troops in Manchuria. In Manchuria the Russian civil engineers at one time had been driven away from work along the Trans-Siberian railway. It was necessary to give adequate protection to these engineers and to the railway as well." Count Cassini pointed out that the Russian minister of foreign affairs in a formal note had announced clearly and distinctly the policy of Russia in regard to Manchuria. In accordance with that declaration, it could not be doubted that when order had been established in Manchuria and measures taken for the protection of railway construction Russia would recall her troops from Manchuria, provided the action of other powers did not place an obstacle in the way of such a measure.

ANOTHER FIRE TRAP

Goes Up in Smoke and Usual Number of Victims are Killed.

New York, Mar. 14.—Three persons were killed in a blazing tenement at 270 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, early this morning. The tenement was a veritable death trap. The fire started in a bake shop on the first floor and the tenants awakened soon in a wild panic. Twenty families lived in the place. The firemen rescued many from the window ledges and only a few escaped by the stairs. Mrs. Madden jumped from the fourth story and turned once landing on her head and was instantly killed. Mrs. Ronteo was burned to death in her room on the third floor. Her son George jumped from the same floor and was instantly killed.

FRIGHTFUL TRAGEDY.

Drunken Man Deliberately Kills His Wife and Shoots Himself.

Canal Dover, O., March 14.—Early this morning Geo. Weaver, a truckman, employed in the mills here, shot his wife and then committed suicide. It is the old story of drink and poverty. Weaver came home and abused his wife and family and then the tired mother taking her new born twin babies went to sleep. Weaver took his revolver, brushed back the hair from his wife's temple and sent a bullet through her brain. He then turned the weapon on himself and the neighbors, rushing in, found the wife dead and the husband dying. They had eight children and six of them are very young and all living in one room. The children are without friends or prospects for the future.

A Kentucky Town Wiped Out by Fire.

Cloverport, Ky., March 14.—Every big business block in this town was destroyed last night by fire, which was caused by a natural gas explosion and the loss is about $500,000. Fire blocks on both sides of the street were destroyed and the state is now hurrying provisions and tents to the destitute people. The town was practically wiped out.

DITCHED.

Passenger Train Meets Disaster.

Eleven Passengers Seriously Injured.

The Train Caught Fire and Several Narrow Escapes from Cremation Experienced. Defective Rail the Cause.

Leavenworth, Kan., March 14.—A Leavenworth and Western passenger train was ditched near Soldier, 65 miles west of here, and 11 passengers were injured. The most seriously injured is Lee Chadwick, superintendent of bridges and buildings. The express car caught fire from an overturned stove and the train crew was compelled to cut into the car to rescue Express Messenger Henry Wheelborg, after which the fire was extinguished. The wreck was caused by a defective rail. Ran Into a Snowdrift. Saginaw, Mich., March 14.—A double-header passenger train from Saginaw to Ludington ran into a snowdrift in front of the station at Lake Station, 62 miles west of this city, on the Pere Marquette. Fireman C. S. Ogden of Ionia and Brakeman W. E. Hammond of St. Johns were killed. Trainmaster P. N. Place of Saginaw was severely and Engineer Robert Sadler slightly injured. Fatalities at a Fire. New York, March 14.—A fire in a dwelling house on Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, resulted in the loss of three lives. Mrs. George Mackin jumped from a third story window and was killed, and the bodies of Mrs. Mary Burns and an unidentified child were found in the ruins. Threatened Wholesale Lynching. Canton, Miss., March 14.—The people are much dissatisfied with the acquittal of Russell Brock, white, and the release, unconditionally or on bail, of seven of the eight negroes charged with Brock with the murder of the Gamble family. There are again threats to lynch all these and Andrew Boyd, the other negro in the case, who is still in jail.

BLACKSMITH STATESMAN.

Tawney of Minnesota Goes From the Forge to Congress

Twenty years ago Tawney of Minnesota left the forge to become a lawyer. At a Washington dinner party the other day the guests looked incredulous when somebody recalled that this thoughtful, well-groomed man, of irreproachable manner and ready speech, was for years a blacksmith, says a Washington correspondent in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Serving his eighth year in congress, one of the most forceful members of the great ways and means committee, head of the committee shaping the world's fair bill, James A. Tawney classes at 45 years of age, with the coquette known as leaders of the republican side. Only a few days ago the vote he received for the senatorial nomination in the republican caucus of Minnesota gave evidence of his political growth. The man's remarkable career is interesting and significant in that it shows the conditions of the United States still make possible the highest degree of success to the earnest worker. As a boy in his home near Gettysburg, Mr. Tawney left school and became an apprentice in his father's blacksmith shop. He learned the trade and advanced through the grades of the machinist. Until he was 26 years old he worked with his hands at the forge and bench by day, and with his brain, having books for tools, in the early mornings and late at night. The people of Winona, his home city, had known him as a machinist for several years when he left the shop to be admitted to the bar in 1882.

HORTICULTURE

Origin and Development of the Apple Blossom.

B. S. Goff, Professor of Horticulture, University of Wisconsin.

Forecasting the apple crop. To what extent may we anticipate the apple crop? Without a microscopic examination we can only give an opinion as to the yield of fruit we may expect next year. The buds are a guide to some extent, but not an accurate one. Round, plump buds on the fruit spurs generally indicate embryo flowers, but the newer buds in some varieties are so much smaller than they are in others that they are almost certain to deceive one who has not made a careful study of the subject. A sharp razor and a high-power pocket lens, with a little experience will enable one to say positively whether a given bud does or does not contain flowers, but without these helps little positive information can be gained.

The development of the flowers. Owing to a lack of definite information, I shall say little on the second division of my subject. The embryo flowers in the apple appear to be nearly or quite as hardy as the leaf-buds, hence the flower-buds rarely winter-kill. When the weather becomes sufficiently warm in spring the buds swell and all of the parts enlarge. The forming flowers in autumn are overruled by cold weather in all stages of development from those nearly ready to expand to those just beginning to form, hence the flowers on the same tree commonly vary two weeks or more in their time of blooming. The abundant water with which the wood is stocked in spring stimulates an exuberant growth and puts a stop to flower formation in buds in which it has not commenced in autumn. Very rarely this rapid growth appears to cause a flower-bud to revert to a leaf-bud, but this certainly does not often happen in our orchard trees.

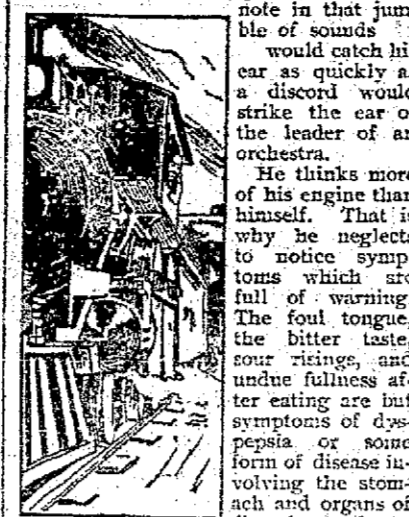

After the flowers have expanded the subject of pollination assumes importance. Prof. Waite's experiments have shown that the varieties of apple are very often sterile, or nearly so, to their own pollen; that is, they will not bear fruit unless they receive pollen from another variety. This fact is of great importance in the planting and top-grafting of orchards. Experimenters seem to show also that prolonged rain during the blooming season may injure the vitality of pollen, as well as prevent insects from distributing it. A very light frost while the flowers are open is almost certain destruction to the pistils, but there are doubtless causes that affect the vitality of the flowers that lie deeper than any I have mentioned, and that are very little understood. We know that the fruit on all trees does not always "set" well, even when weather conditions seem favorable, and that the fruit often drops badly shortly after setting. It is not enough that the stamens shall yield pollen, and that this pollen shall be deposited on the stigma. The pollen, the stigma and the embryo must all be in a healthy condition, or fecundation does not result. These subjects call for much further investigation.

Practical deductions. Let us now consider some of the practical deductions from the foregoing statements. I have often alluded to favorable conditions for flower formation. What are these conditions? They involve the whole environment of the apple tree. Though largely climatic, they are to a considerable extent susceptible to treatment. We must have, first, favorable growth conditions to produce plenty of healthy leaves and buds, and we should remember that all leaves and buds are formed on new growth. This means a moderate temperature, plenty of moisture early in the season, and especially during late autumn and winter, wise pruning and fertilizing, and freedom from injurious parasites. We can promote a moderate temperature by planting on north or northeast slopes, if our country is rolling. By early plowing, we prepare the land to catch and hold the spring rains. If these are scanty, we can keep the surface fine and level to check evaporation; if they are excessive we may keep it rough to prevent washing, and to favor evaporation. Wise pruning promotes normal growth and admits light to the fruit spurs. Normal growth requires that the pruning shall be moderate and regular, that is, performed every year. It does not remove large limbs unless they are diseased, nor does it head back sufficient to start the fruit spurs. It thins out the outer, smaller branches and saves the older wood with its fruit spurs. It is preferably performed early in spring. Wise fertilizing means sufficient nitrogen to promote normal growth in a season of average rainfall, and sufficient phosphoric acid and potash to develop and mature a good crop of apples with its seeds. The problems of fertility must in the nature of the case be largely studied out by the orchardist for himself, for no two farms are alike. They call for constant and persistent observation, study and experiment. A few general hints may, however, be given. Unless the soil is known to be very poor, manures should not be applied in large quantities at once. Since growth is desired early in the season stable manures applied early should be well decomposed. As a rule, nitrogen is best given in the form of the so-called cover crops, of which I shall speak later. Wood ashes, where these can be had, will furnish the potash and phosphoric acid.

Lamps should be kept well filled.

The Engineer

Learning from the cab window does more with his ears than his eyes. The "rumble and grumble and roar" of his engine are to him articulate speech, and a false note in that jumble would strike the ear of the leader of an orchestra.

He thinks more of his engine than himself. That is why he neglects to notice symptoms which are full of warning. The foul tongue, the bitter taste, sour risings, and undue fullness after eating are but symptoms of dyspepsia, or some form of disease involving the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition.

In time the heart, liver, lungs, or other organs are involved and the engineer has to lay off.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood and builds up the body with sound healthy flesh.

I used ten bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and several bottles of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and have had no trouble with indigestion since," writes Mr. W. T. Thompson of Townsend, New York Co., N. Y.

"Words fail to tell how thankful I am for the relief, as I had suffered so much and it seemed that the doctors could do nothing for me. I got down in weight to 125 pounds, and was not able to work at all. Now I weigh 160 and can do my work as usual. I have received your medicine to several, and shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Pierce and his products."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

Farwell to 'Bus Nags.

Electric stages are at last a certainty for Fifth avenue. The ridiculous array of antiquated horse-drawn and time-worn vehicles which has monopolized New York's richest thoroughfare is doomed. Automobiles carrying twenty-two people outside and in have been ordered from New Haven, and as fast as they are received the decrepit animals now in use will be sent to a home for aged and indigent dry horses. The new stages cost $5,500 each and develop a surprising rate of speed even with a full load. The New Haven Cab company was the first in the country to use electric vehicles, and the experiment was watched with interest by several stagecoach proprietors. Time and again the Fifth avenue corporation has been petitioned for a more modern service, or at least a fresh coat of paint for the horses and busses. The actual change will rob New York of one of its most cherished institutions. For years visitors have been taken up town and shown the Fifth avenue stage horses. They have been monuments to the obstinacy of man.

A GOOD COUGH MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN.

"I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says F. P. Moran, a well known and popular baker, of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, also whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children, as it contained no opium or other harmful drug." Sold by H. F. Vorkamp, cor. Main and North streets.

New Women in Scotland.

In Scotland where there are no women lawyers a woman is suing the Incorporated Society of Law Agents, which is the Scotch Bar association, to compel the society to admit her to examination so that she may be entitled to practice as a full-fledged attorney. The society does not seem to care much whether she becomes a lawyer or not. In an answer to her plea, filed with the court, it says that the court had better decide the matter. It does not feel itself called upon either by duty or interest to maintain that women might not be admitted to the practice of law; the society can only state that no woman has hitherto been admitted and that there are certain public offices open to lawyers for which women probably would not be suited. The court is likely to grant the woman's plea.

Stone Used as Barometer.

The residents of northern Finland use a peculiar stone, which is rather common in that country, as a substitute for a barometer. This stone, which they call Ilmakivi, turns black or blackish-gray when bad weather is approaching; fine weather has the effect of turning it almost white. The Finns regard the stone with superstitious reverence, but scientists say that its changes in color are due to salts contained in its composition.

WOMAN AND HOME.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FOR MAIDS AND MATRONS.

Don't Wear It Girls—The High Collar Spoils a Pretty Neck and Induces Cancer—Some Pretty Costumes for the Young Ladies.

THE HIGH COLLAR SHOULD GO.

The other day at the hairdresser's, says a Philadelphia writer, I could not help noticing how quickly a plain girl was transformed into a very attractive one when her high stiff collar was removed and the towel folded softly about her neck. She was quite ordinary looking when she took her seat in the chair; but as soon as that soft drapery was put about her throat a whole multitude of pretty lines came tripping smilingly forth, and I could hardly take my eyes away from the pretty curves of throat, the dark line of the hair, and the profile.

Now, if she would only wear a soft drapery about her neck, she would be a pleasing picture the whole day long. But her hair dressed, she immediately clapped on the disgusting collar and went forth stylish but homely. Not for the world would she do anything that was out of fashion. She would rather swathe her neck to the tips of her ears until it looks as if it had met with an accident and been done up in lint than to wear a soft and over which her chin protrudes like a projecting ledge, than look pretty and unfashionable. She shuts off her circulation, gives herself a red nose, wears ugly marks in her neck, and believes she is looking charming because she is in the style. It is woman's ambition, they say, to be beautiful. But one would not think so by the way they dress. Indeed, it is beauty of a rare order that will rise superior to the dress imposed by fashion and be beautiful in spite of it.

But worse than losing the pretty lines about the neck by wearing such collars is the fate now threatened. We are told by doctors that these same tight, disgusting neckbands are causing cancer of the throat. That is, indeed, startling. But I doubt if it will make much difference. Cancer or no cancer, the collar will not be laid aside unless fashion, instead of physicians, orders it.

Several cases of this dread malady have developed in the last year or two directly traceable to this cause. Every woman who hears of it will probably think, "Oh, well, I won't get it," and straightway screw her collar up a notch tighter just to show she pays no attention to such sensational reports. Maybe she won't become a victim, maybe she will. But even if she doesn't, would it do any harm for her to assist in stamping out a fashion that is bringing suffering to weaker sisters? If every woman would refuse to wear a tight high collar they would quickly go out of fashion. If a low soft neck arrangement were universally adopted one could wear it without any qualms of conscience or dread of Dame Fashion's eye, and it would make both for health and beauty.

AGAINST THE TRAILING SKIRT.

Emphatic disapproval of the trailing skirt has been heard in recent years from various quarters, but only within the past few months has any organization and definite action been taken to discourage or suppress this unhealthy and offensive fashion.

An anti-trailing league has been formed in London, numbering among its members several high-born women and leaders of fashion in the English metropolis. One of its members, Princess Reuss, has promised through the press to do all that she can to form such a league in Germany, her native country.

A SMART FROCK.

A smart party frock which can be executed in nun's veiling of any color, trimmed with beige colored satin lace. It has a shaped frill at the bottom of the skirt, and the sleeves and bodice are ornamented with lace, arranged in a herring-bone design, with bands of lace insertion between. The waistband and rosettes are of satin ribbon. This pretty little gown can also be used for summer.

THE INFLUENCE OF COLOR.

The colorings of rooms, it is claimed by a recent writer, often tinge the thoughts of the occupants. An author who desires to follow out solid theories and generally severe lines of thought has been known to say that he cannot possibly do it in a room that is painted and painted in amber and white. The surroundings are too exhilarating, and lead him off into lighter themes.

Don't Wear It Girls—The High Collar Spoils a Pretty Neck and Induces Cancer—Some Pretty Costumes for the Young Ladies.

THE HIGH COLLAR SHOULD GO.

The other day at the hairdresser's, says a Philadelphia writer, I could not help noticing how quickly a plain girl was transformed into a very attractive one when her high stiff collar was removed and the towel folded softly about her neck. She was quite ordinary looking when she took her seat in the chair; but as soon as that soft drapery was put about her throat a whole multitude of pretty lines came tripping smilingly forth, and I could hardly take my eyes away from the pretty curves of throat, the dark line of the hair, and the profile.

Now, if she would only wear a soft drapery about her neck, she would be a pleasing picture the whole day long. But her hair dressed, she immediately clapped on the disgusting collar and went forth stylish but homely. Not for the world would she do anything that was out of fashion. She would rather swathe her neck to the tips of her ears until it looks as if it had met with an accident and been done up in lint than to wear a soft and over which her chin protrudes like a projecting ledge, than look pretty and unfashionable. THE PARENTAL NICKNAME.

Vicissitudes of "Papa" and "Mamma" and "Governor" in England.

In our own country "papa" and "mamma" have been in familiar use for some three hundred years at least, says the London Globe. They probably reached us from Italy, where their use was of much older date. Dame uses "mamma" in the "Purgatorio." Words of this kind are often in common and familiar use long before they find their way into the written language of books, so that it would not be easy to say when "papa" and "mamma" were first heard among us, but one of the earliest literary traces of their use is to be found in Lyly's "Euphues" (1578), an Italian story crammed with curious verbal absurdities, for the most part copied or imitated from the Italian fashions and affectations of the day. From that time instances of the use of one or the other of the words, or of both, are fairly common in literature.

Another familiar and childish variant is "dad" or "daddy." "Dad," or "dad" as the earlier form is, is a pure Welsh word, and is of great antiquity. The Lord's Prayer begins in Welsh with the words "Elin Tad," or "Elin Dad," the first word of the phrase meaning "Our." "Dad," with its derivatives "daddy" and "dada," has long been familiar in the mouths of English children. Like "papa," it was doubtless in use many years before literature took note of it; still, it is found more than two centuries ago in a burlesque poem attacking James II. The doggerel contains both "dad" and "dada." Children of a larger growth have other equivalents for father and mother. Boys who think that they are too big to use the tender sounding names which were familiar to their infancy talk of the "pater" and the "mater." "Governor" is another colloquial variant which has little to recommend it. A few shades worse than "governor" is "relieving officer"—a phrase affected by sons who look upon their fathers chiefly as the source of financial supply. There are other similar epithets in use, but they are neither attractive nor dignified. When daddy and mamma, or papa or mamma are put aside as too childish, or are discarded for any other reason, there are no parental names which can for a moment compare with the simple, but dignified, plain, but beautiful, Anglo-Saxon words father and mother.

AN HONEST MEDICINE FOR LA GRIPPE.

George W. Waitt, of South Gardiner, Me., says: "I have had the worst cold, cold, chills and grip and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vendor. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one bottle of it and the chills, cold and grip have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale by H. F. Vorkamp, cor. Main and North sts.

SLEPT WRONG WAY.

Strange Superstitions on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Stock Exchange is not without its members, wrinkled and gray, whose superstitions are as deep-rooted as those of the ancient negro mummies who wore "tricken bags" in their arm-pits. One whose office is reached from Broadway, Wall street or Pine (by way of identification) was much annoyed by the persistent bad luck that followed one of his favorite customers. This customer and the market were forever at cross purposes. They didn't nick at all, and his money was dwindling away in the most disheartening manner. Last week the broker whispered in his ear strange things. "Tell me, frankly and truly, how you sleep?" he asked tragically. "Why, or—well, er—the truth is, I haven't slept at all of late," was the reply, whereas the other hastily put in: "I don't mean that; I want to know in what direction you sleep; how does your body lie?" "O, every way; I guess; on my right side, on my left side, on my back, on my stomach, straightened out at full length, doubled up like a frog—every old way." The broker drew him to a corner. "You still fail to understand me," continued the old man, a member since the war. "What I must know is, how do you head when you go to bed? Is your head to the north, east, south or west?" I never gave it a thought before, but now that you mention it my head is always to the north—when I'm at home." "Um! I just thought so! No wonder the market has been going against you. Go straight home and have your bed turned around so that your head will be toward the south or west. Don't ask any fool questions. Just do as I say: it won't cost you a cent, and—well, if the market don't go your way, I'll carry your stock fifty points in either direction. The idea of a sensible man sleeping with his head to the north or the east and playing the stock market—or any other game. It beats me!" The customer, at all times hard-headed, must have reached a point in his continued ill fortune that weakened his obstinacy, for he changed his direction of sleeping, and, strange of all, has since recovered a fraction of his losses in the street. The aged broker is the happiest man in town—New York Press.

WETTING THE BED AT NIGHT

Is a complaint that is not uncommon in children and is commonly supposed to be a habit to be corrected by the will of the child. But this is a mistake. A diseased condition of the bladder, causing an impulse to discharge the urine, is the cause. This impulse can not be overcome in sleep and the result is the fault complained of.

SANURY

given in small doses will so correct the condition of the urine as to completely cure the trouble within a week or two. The condition is one that must not be neglected, for it indicates disease which can only grow worse and perhaps result seriously in time. Sanury will cure. Sanury can be relied on in all urinary troubles.

American Horseshoes in Africa.

The horses ridden by Lord Kitchener's Goring Cavalry to chase the elusive General Delva across the South African veldt are shod with shoes made in Pennsylvania, the contract for their construction having been made through the instrumentality of the commercial museums in Philadelphia.

NOTICE TO PAVING CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk of Lima, until 12 o'clock, noon, of Thursday, March 22nd 1901, and opened immediately thereafter, for the improvement of East Main street, from the east line of Main street to the west line of Market street, by grading, draining, curbing and paving the same with a first class quality of three inch asphalt brick in accordance with the specifications heretofore adopted and now on file in the office of the City Clerk, and of an ordinance passed of the Council February 11th, 1901.

Separate bids will also be received for the construction of catch-basins and connections thereto, and the rights is reserved to award a contract for the same apart from the remainder of the work.

Bidders will use the form of proposal adopted by the city which will be furnished together with the specifications and all further information concerning the work upon application to the City Civil Engineer.

No proposal will be considered unless accompanied by a certified check upon a Lima, Ohio, bank, payable to the City Clerk, in the sum of $1,000.00, except that checks accompanying proposals for the construction of catch-basins and sewer connections shall be in the sum of $25.00. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned within ten days from award of contract. If the person or persons to whom the work is awarded fails to enter into contract with acceptable bond within ten days of such award, his said check will be retained by the city as liquidation damages.

By order of Council.

ENGLAND'S PEASANTRY.

Their Present Condition Contrasted with That of a Century Ago.
 The agricultural laborers of today are certainly better clad, more luxuriously fed, have far more leisure, are better educated, and are rapidly becoming better housed than their forefathers a century ago. And if these are the main constituents of happiness, then they are happier, comments a correspondent in Nineteenth Century. On the other hand, their grandfathers and great-grandfathers were much more gay and light-hearted than the modern; they enjoyed their lives much more than their descendants do; they had incomparably more laughter, more amusement, more real delight in the labor of their hands; there was more love among them and less hate. The agricultural laborer had a bad drunken time between 20 or 30 years ago, and he has been growing out of that.
 A village sot is a very rare bird, as rare as he was 100 years ago. Then the laborer could not afford a drunken debauch—he had not the wherewithal.
 His master, the farmer, did drink, and sometimes deeply in the days when he was prospering. And for a few years after the rise of the laborer's wages, some 25 years ago, the laborer was the publican's friend. But hard drinking has been steadily declining, and the habitual drunkard is looked upon as a coarse brute to be avoided, as to other vices, things are pretty much as they were. I am afraid rather worse than better. Perhaps the saddest characteristic of the men of the present, as compared with the men of the past, is that the men of the past were certainly more self-dependent—I do not mean independent, in the sense in which that word is used now—more resourceful, more kindly, courteous, and contented with their lot than their descendants are.

HOW TO ADVERTISE.

Chinese Trademen and Doctors Have Mastered the Art.
 The advertising columns in Chinese newspapers are characteristic of a peculiar people—verbose, grandiloquent and childish. Here is a jilted lover addresses his broken heart to the world:
 "I earnestly broken my heart and bitterness. My loved one has, it is plain, been enticed away by this rascal's deceit. How, I wonder, can a mere tailor's dummy like this succeed in winning her? Surely he has not law or justice before his eyes. It is on this account that I am advertising."
 A mother writes to a son who has run away from home: "If you don't longer and do not return I cannot cannot bear it, and shall surely seek an end to my life, and then you will stand in peril of death by thunder. I am now at my last gasp, and the family has suffered from insults most grievous. If you come, no matter how, everything is sure to be arranged. I have thought of a plan by which your father may still be kept in ignorance.
 My life or death hangs on the issue of these few days. Only I pray that all good people everywhere will spread this message abroad so that the right person may hear of it. So will they lay up for themselves a boundless store of secret merit."

Quacks in China advertise in more beautiful language than their kind in America. One such "ad" runs: "One recipe has come down to us from a physician of the Ming dynasty. A certain mandarin was journeying in the hill country when he saw a woman passing southward over the mountains, as though flying. In her hand she held a stick, and she was pursuing an old fellow of 100 years.
 The mandarin asked: "Why do you beat that old man?" She answered:
 "He is my grandson, for I am 500 years old and he is 114. He will not purify himself by taking his medicine, and so I am beating him." The mandarin alighted from his horse and knelt down and did obeisance to her, saying: "Give me, I pray you this drug, that I may hand it down to posterity for the salvation of mankind." Take it for five days and the body will feel light; take it for ten days and your spirits will become brisk; for twenty days and the voice will be strong and clear and the hands and feet supple; for one year and white hairs will become black again and you move as though flying. Take it constantly and all troubles will vanish, and you will pass a long life without growing old."

A SURE CURE FOR

GRIP

SALISBURY'S SHAFTS.

Discusses English Commerce and Its Alleged Decline.
 London, March 14.—Lord Salisbury, speaking at the annual banquet of the Association of the Chambers of Commerce, referred to trade questions.
 "I do not find," said the premier, "that the spectre of Germany has affected our commercial works, although a despondent feeling exists." After recommending a more general study of foreign languages, and asserting that Englishmen ought to know French and German, and possibly Spanish, before thinking of Latin and Greek, Lord Salisbury urged that education should be utilitarian. Later in the address he observed: "I do not largely believe in the decadence of English commerce, but, if it is true, it is possibly due to parliament, which meddles too much."

Wants Crowe to Testify.

Omaha, March 14.—In support of a motion for a continuance, James Callahan, who goes to trial next Wednesday, charged with being one of the kidnapers of Edward A. Cudahy, Jr., has filed an affidavit asking that Pat Crowe be brought in to testify. He swears he can prove by Crowe that he was not implicated in the kidnaping on Dec. 18. Callahan swears that he can acquit without the testimony of Crowe. Callahan also says that he does not know Crowe's whereabouts at this time, but says that it is his opinion that he is not far from Omaha.

Professor Hadley's Correction.

New Haven, March 14.—President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale university gave out the following statement concerning an utterance attributed to him at the Old South church, Boston, last Sunday evening: "The possibility of an emperor sitting in Washington in the near future was mentioned not as a probable contingency, but as an absolutely inadmissible one. Any different report is erroneous."

Preparing for War.

Victoria, B. C., March 14.—Captain Sutherland of the bank Senator, which arrived from China, says that between Wei Hai Wei, Shanghai and Hong kong, Great Britain has placed on the Asiatic coast 1,000,000 tons of coal.
 Naval supplies, including guns, ammunition, etc., are continually being landed, and although there are no immediate prospects of war, these preparations are considered ominous.

With Volunteers.

San Francisco, March 14.—The United States transport Buford arrived here from the Philippines. She brought 75 discharged soldiers and civil employes from Manila and 555 men of the Thirty-seventh volunteers.
 On March 10 Private Gustavo Zewer of Company I jumped overboard with suicidal intent. His body was not recovered.

Railroads Blocked.

Grand Rapids, March 14.—Raging along the entire coast of Lake Michigan north of Grand Rapids, and reaching out over the Saginaw valley, is one of the most disastrous storms in years. Railroad reports here say that all lines are blocked and that not a train on the Grand Rapids and Indiana or the Pere Marquette north and northeast of here is able to move.

Veterans to Parade.

Louisville, March 14.—George B.
 Estlin camp, Confederate Veterans, decided that a parade of Confederate veterans will be one of the features of the twenty-eighth triennial convocation of the Knights Templar in this city, Aug. 27-30. A mass meeting of ex-Confederates will be held in this city Tuesday night to perfect plans.

Liquor Salesman Soaked.

Fort Scott, Kan., March 14.—At Uniontown, R. E. Eckert, traveling salesman for a Louisville company, was arrested for soliciting orders for liquor. He was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. Judge Simons of the district court refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus.

Treasury Statement.

Washington, March 14.—Statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption:
 Available cash balance, $149,- 452,783; gold, $89,682,755.

Turf Winners.

Andrew Carnegie Donates Five Mil-

 Pittsburgh, March 14.—Two letters from Andrew Carnegie tell of his retirement from active business life and of his donation of $5,000,000 for the endowment of a fund for superannuated and disabled employes of the Carnegie company. This benefaction is probably without a counterpart in the world. It will in no wise interfere with the continuance of the saving fund established by the company 15 years ago for the benefit of its employees. In this latter fund nearly $2,000,000 of the employees' savings are on deposit, upon which the company, money to the workmen to build their

Canton, O., March 14.—Word was received here that Andrew Carnegie, before sailing for Europe, had promised William Hawk of New York, a former Cantonian, $50,000 for a public library building if the city will provide $5,000 a year for maintenance. A site has already been provided. The conditions, it is thought, will be met without difficulty.

After a Thoroughbred.

Louisville, March 14.—It was said by a person directly interested in the matter that Captain Sam S. Brown of Louisville offered Charles Head Smith of Chicago $25,000 for Garry Hermann, the favorite in the Kentucky and American derbies. The offer was refused, but it is said a new offer from Captain Brown may result in the sale of the horse.

Royalty Comes High.

London, March 14.—The government's proposals for the civil list show a total of £470,000, being £110,000 for his majesty's private purse, and the rest for the expenses of the royal household.
 The queen consort's allowance is £50,- 000, and is included in the total already given. This will be increased to £70,000 in the event of the death of the king.

Peruvian Minister Recalled.

Lima, Peru, March 14.—The Peruvian government has decided to recall Senator Cesaro Chasaltana, Peruvian minister at Santiago De Chile, in order to express its dissatisfaction with the evident policy and intention of the government of Chile to Chileanize the disputed provinces of Tama and Arica.

Disorders in Spain.

Madrid, March 14.—The manufacturers in the Hatter district of Catalonia have called upon the government for assistance. The workmen there are raising cries of "Long live the social revolution." Troops are being sent to the scene of the disturbance and the closing of factories continues.

Million Dollar Bill.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 14.—The bill appropriating $1,000,000 for the Louisiana Purchase world's fair at St.
 Louis, with senate amendments incorporating an emergency clause making the money available at once, has passed the house. The bill now goes to the governor for his signature.

Now For Blood.

Brussels, March 14.—Y. Andre Buf-for the arrangements for whose duel with M. Paul De Roulede have been completed, left Brussels for Basle, Switzerland. M. Paul De Roulede also has gone to Switzerland.

Symptoms of Indigestion.

INDIGESTION or Dyspepsia shows itself by feelings of pain, tenderness, weight, fullness, distension, oppression, or general uneasiness after partaking of food, Heartburn, Flatulence, Drowsiness, Nausea, Vomiting, either after meals or in the early morning; flushings of the Face, with redness about the Nose; Sick Headaches, furred, dry, or white-coated Tongue; foulness of breath, acidity, frequent rising of a watery, acrid, sour fluid in the mouth; loss of appetite (more especially after breakfast); Giddi-ness, Faintness, feeling of Languor and Restlessness with disinclination to move after eating; Irritability and Mental Depression, sometimes amounting to Melancholy; Feeble or a Torpid condition of the Bowels. Nothing acts so readily upon these stomach derangements as Warner's Safe Cure.

It increases the quantity and improves the quality of the Gastric Juice and the highest digestive efficiency is thus maintained. The appetite returns, Digestion and Assimilation are rendered perfect.
 The most acute suffering from the above symptoms is quickly subdued by the use of Warner's Safe Cure.

Don't Go Hungry Now.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.,
 Nov. 29, 1900.

Warner's Safe Cure Co.:
 GENTLEMEN:—As a cure for indigestion or stomach troubles, I believe there is none that is equal to Warner's Safe Cure. Some months ago I was suffering from indigestion, but Warner's Safe Cure absolutely cured me.

DEMOCRATIC CITY PRIMARY ELECTION.

The qualified voters of the Democratic party of the city of Lima, Allen county, Ohio, are hereby notified to assemble at the places hereinafter named on March 14th, 1901, between the hours of 3 and 8 p. m., and then and there vote by ballot for a nominee for each of the following offices to be elected at the April election, A. D. 1901:

One candidate for Justice of the Peace.

One candidate for Water Works Trustee.

One candidate for Councilman in each of the several wards.

One candidate for Assessor in each of the several wards.

One candidate for member of School Board to serve for two years from the First, Third, Fifth and Seventh wards.

The following rules have been adopted by the City Central Committee of Lima, Ohio, for conducting said primary election:

First:—The said primary election shall be held in each of the several wards in the following places:

First ward, at north side hose house.

Second ward:—In J. L. Hartzog's barber shop, 311 east Wayne street.

Third ward: Henry Hauenstein's bicycle shop, 133 east High street.

Fourth ward: A and C, at south side hose house.

Fifth ward: at Cramer's drug store.

Sixth ward: at Central fire department station.

Seventh ward: at agricultural secretary's room, court house.

Second: Said primary election shall be held on the 14th day of March, A. D. 1901, between the hours of 3 o'clock p. m., and 8 o'clock p. m., standard time.

Third: The committeeman from each ward may act as judge, or shall select a judge and clerks to assist in said election, and in case of failure or neglect on the part of such committeemen to so appoint, it shall be the duty of the chairman of the City Democratic Committee to make such appointments. Before entering upon the discharge of their duties such clerks and judges shall be duly qualified that they will correctly and faithfully conduct such election, protect it against fraud and unfairness, and carefully and truly canvass all votes cast thereat, by the rules and regulations adopted by the committee. The oath of office shall be administered by some officer duly authorized to administer oaths. The same shall be attached to and made a part of the returns. In case of any doubt or dispute of such returns, the committee shall canvass and declare the result.

Fourth: The following shall be deemed qualified to vote at said election. (1.) All those who are known to be Democrats. (2.) All those not known to be Democrats who shall state under oath that they voted the Democratic State ticket at the preceding State election. (3.) All those who are not voters who will cast their first vote at the coming April election, who will pledge themselves to vote the entire Democratic ticket. (4.) All Democrats who are entitled to vote at the election of Members of School Board shall be entitled to vote for the nomination of such members at said primary election.

Fifth: Qualified voters shall vote at the ward in which they have legal residence.

Sixth: The judges and clerks shall keep a correct poll book for said primary election, and a separate book for the nomination of Members of School Board. In the wards in which such members are to be nominated at said primary in each of which shall be recorded the names of every person voting thereon respectively, at said election, and they shall immediately after the close proceed to count the ballots cast thereat and make correct tally sheets of the same showing the exact number of votes cast for each candidate, which tally sheets and poll books shall be signed and sealed up with the ballots cast at said election and the same shall be immediately delivered to the chairman of the Democratic City Central Committee at the assembly room of the court house, where the result shall be made known. Any candidates upon said ticket may be present at the count of said votes, either in person or by one Democratic representative whom he shall empower therefor in writing.

Seventh: The Central Committee will have sufficient number of tickets printed and delivered to the committeeman of each voting precinct. No candidate is allowed to have any tickets printed and no tickets shall be used except such as are authorized by said Central Committee.

Eighth: The candidates must pay their assessments to J. R. Fennell, the secretary, on or before 7:30 o'clock p. m., of Tuesday, March 12, A. D. 1901, or their names will not appear on the primary tickets.

The above and foregoing was adopted by the City Democratic Central Committee, of Lima, Ohio, at a meeting held March 5, 1901.

W. T. COPELAND, Chairman.

J. R. FINNELL, Secretary.

Since it has been demonstrated that the interest of the Republican party in an interoceanic canal was for campaign purposes only, the final failure of the treaty negotiated with Great Britain attracts very little attention.

The treaty was ostensibly intended to facilitate the construction of the canal by the United States. As those who are now running the United States have no immediate intention of undertaking such a work, the attitude of Great Britain is of no practical importance.

Great Britain is not anxious for an American canal. She already controls a canal that connects the Atlantic and Pacific by a route more important to her own commerce, and if another route is to be opened, she would like to make something out of it. Moreover, the Dominion of Canada has spent a fortune in building a railway to the Pacific, and Canadian influence is no more favorable to the canal than is that of our own railway corporations. It is against the canal unless some compensating advantages can be gained.

If it is doubtful if the Hay-Pauncefote agreement was ever expected to be final. Great Britain could afford to sign it, knowing that it probably would not be ratified by the senate, and the senate committed itself to nothing in passing the treaty with amendments, since it was unlikely that these would be accepted by Great Britain. The whole business was a diplomatic game in which neither side was in earnest, and the occasion for pretense having now passed by, both sides allow it to drop. It remains now to be seen what new turn of the game the president will have to present when congress meets again. The straightforward plan of going ahead without international entanglements is the one he is least likely to suggest.

A GOOD judge must have both experience and learning. A housekeeper should be a good judge for she too must have experience and learning or she may think that the soaps made to look like Ivory Soap are just as good. With experience she will know that they lack the remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ivory Soap—99 1/2 per cent. pure.

COPY READERS.

Authors Blame Them for Errors They Do Not Commit.

"Most authors are fortunate in the suggestion of 'editing' their manuscripts," said a man who used to be a reader in a big publishing house, but you would be surprised at the ludicrous blunders made by the best of them. When a writer is accessible the usual plan is to mark the "bad breaks" on the proof slips and send them to him, with a discreet note requesting a correction. But when a house is getting out a book in a hurry or when the author is abroad, this is often impossible, and then the situation becomes very ticklish. I remember, for instance, I was once reading the proofs of a novel by one of our best known and crackliest women writers. She was away on a visit to Mexico and had left strict orders to "follow copy" to the letter. In one of the early chapters the hero was shaving himself after a long hunting trip and was exactly half through when interrupted by the sudden arrival of the villain. A stormy scene followed, and eventually all hands adjourned to a fashionable ball. The author evidently forgot that her man was still half shaved, and I took the liberty of finishing the job. When she saw the book she was as mad as blazes because I had interpolated eight or nine words, and I swore I would never again play the barber to save anybody's reputation. Another writer for whom we got out a story made one of his characters "empty his revolver" at a retreating burglar and a moment later "blow two bullets crashing through a window" to show a rival how quick he was on the trigger. I called his attention to the inexhaustible pistol and he never spoke to me afterward. In an earlier novel by the same gentleman you will find reference to the hero's "dark, smooth shaven face," and on the very next page he is "twirling his mustache." I noticed it in the proof, but remembered my experience with the lady and let it go. It is a common thing for writers to locate well known streets, parks, art galleries and monuments in the wrong cities, and they make the sun rise and set at all the points of the compass. We had to delay a book for a whole season once because the author located the Windward Islands off the coast of South Carolina, and then went away to Japan before anybody discovered the mistake. To make the correction involved changing the whole action of the story, which, of course, nobody dared to do."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Adam Simon is home from a visit to friends at Upper Sandusky.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Britt, of south Union street, has an attack of scarlet fever.

W. M. Allen, after a pleasant visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Allen, of south Elizabeth street, returned to his home at Indianapolis, Ind., yesterday.

Death of a Young Wife Occurred Yesterday from Lung Trouble.

James P. Church, an Aged Veteran of the Civil War Dies from Dropsy After Three Months Illness.

Mrs. Hattie Hardin, wife of Sloan Hardin, of 391 St. Johns avenue, died at noon yesterday, death resulting from lung trouble, after an illness of six months duration. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bauman. She was born in Anguilla county and lived to attain the age of twenty years, two months and six days.

The funeral services will be held at the residence of the bereaved husband at 12 o'clock tomorrow. Rev. W. M. Miller will conduct the services and the remains will be taken to Mount Carmel cemetery to be consigned to their final resting place there.

A Civil War Veteran.

James P. Church, a prominent and well known resident of Cridersville, died yesterday from dropsy, after an illness of three months duration. The deceased was aged 80 years, 7 months and 21 days, and was a member of company F, 6th regiment, O. V. cavalry, in which he served for 18 months. He was born in Indiana, and leaves two sons and two daughters, one of the latter being Mrs. S. M. Fletcher, of West Kirby street. The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Henderson at the M. E. church, at Cridersville, tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Lutheran cemetery.

DELPHOS

Working to Put a Company in the Second Regiment.

A paper is in circulation to receive signatures of those wishing to become members of a military company, says the Delphos Herald.

Only young men of good moral character are desired, as it is the intention of the promoters to make it a social organization, with spacious headquarters, a reading room, gymnasium, etc., and the state will pay the expenses. If about seventy-five names can be secured Col. J. I. Ream, of Lima, commanding the Second Ohio Regiment, will come to Delphos and fully explain to the prospective members at a meeting that will be called. Signatures will be taken by King Deere, J. W. Fisher or Art. Foster. Col. Ream needs two companies and as had applications from six for membership. He will wait, however, as he is desirous of having a company created in Delphos.

THE IDLER.

S. J. Baumann has opened a "Three Cent" restaurant at 404 north Main street, which promises to become very popular, it being the only one of its kind in the city.

The state board of public works was in session today, says the Columbus Press Post.

Mr. Huffman, the member from Lima, presented a report in regard to the proposed settlement of the state's judgment of $100,000 against the Manhattan Oil company. An attempt will be made to settle the claim.

Bids were opened for construction of dams at Defiance and Independence on the northern division of the Ohio canal.

Prof. Hufford, of Ada, will lecture in the township house at Lafayette on Saturday evening of this week and Supt. C. A. Grabau has issued invitations to his friends throughout the county to attend.

Recently so much pigeon stealing has been carried on throughout the city that Harry Johnson is contemplating the construction of a thief trap at the pigeon house, where he has a splendid and valuable number of birds.

Yesterday Harry Johnson shipped a handsome pair of fine pigeons to a tanager at Anita, Iowa.

Tony Miller and George Weisenmeyer will sail from New York on March 26th for a trip to Europe. Mr. Miller will visit his aged mother in Austria, who is at present in poor health. The will sail on the steamship "Lahn," North German Lloyd line, and will be gone about three months.

Since the electrocution of the colored rapist, Richard Gardner, there has been considerable rivalry for his skeleton. The medical colleges were among the claimants. One of them secured his body and the other was after the bones but in addition there were others. Among these was Detective George Gaston, of Columbus, who was over at the penitentiary Tuesday on a quest for Gardner's skull, which he had heard was in the medical department at that place. Gaston, who is an old enemy of Smoky Hobbs tried to secure the influence of that prisoner with the doctors and through him made an effort to land the skull. He was turned down, however, by the physicians, who intend to keep the skull in their own possession, as it is in many ways unique and valuable curiosity, to say nothing of its scientific value.

Professor Jacob Grupp, a well known Chicago psychometrist, will occupy the platform at Dome hall next Sunday afternoon and evening, and will spend several days professionally in Lima next week. Judge M. K. Maguire will explain the philosophy of his remarkable gift in his hall work, which he holds to be of a spiritual character.

The Outlook

At Columbus is Reported Favorably.

Committee of Ten Does Good Work and Finds One Antagonist.

The Lima Delegation Arrived in the Capital City, One Hundred and Ten Strong, at Ten O'clock This Morning.

The special train on which the delegation of Lima citizens went to Columbus today to enter protest before the State Board of Equalization against the ten per cent increase in the valuation of the property for taxation in this city, left the Erie depot at 7:30 o'clock this morning with one hundred and ten representative citizens on board. The train was in charge of conductor Burgess and engineer Gaston and made an excellent run, landing the party in the capital city at 10 o'clock. The following special dispatch from a TIMES-DEMOCRAT representative who accompanied the party, explains the status of the situation as it was at 2 o'clock this afternoon:

COLUMBUS, O., March 14, 1901.

The Lima delegation arrived here at 10 o'clock, excellent service being furnished by the Erie and C. & W. & T. railroads. The party went direct to the Neil house in a body and met the committee of ten which had done excellent work. Everything at present is pronounced favorable. The formal protest will be made in the senate room in the capital building at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The majority are sanguine of the result but will demand only ten per cent reduction. The state board will take the matter under consideration for three days when the result will be pronounced. Oskamp, of Hamilton county, is our worst antagonist, Cincinnati got a reduction of twelve and a half per cent which some other cities will have to make up and that fact is given as the only reason for Oskamp's stand against Lima. Westergades is not here, death and further illness in his family still preventing his presence.

We have a limited supply of wall paper for 13-4 cents per roll.

WILLIAMS' BIG CHEAP STORE.

The Woman's Missionary society of the First Baptist church will serve a hot supper in the church Friday evening, March 15th, from 6 to 7:30 p. m. Menu—Chicken fricassee, cold ham, escalloped potatoes, baked beans, jelly, pickles, bread and butter, fruit, cake and coffee. This will be followed by an excellent program, subject being the "Red Men of the West." The sum of 15 cents will be charged at the door. Every one welcome.

A LENTEN DISH.
Deviled crabs and their shells to serve them in can be had at Irwin's, 25 cents for can and shells. Try them.

A RIDE FOR LIFE.

Manager Jeff D. Bernstein promises theatre-goers this season a production in "A Ride for Life" that will, for magnitude, wonderful scenic effects and mechanical devices be a revelation in stage offerings. He is selecting a company from the foremost players to present the different characters in the play, including the popular young comedian, Mr. Ross Snow and the charming sourette, Miss Carrie Exier.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. McGahey, of Waynesfield, spent a couple of days at Lima.

Miss Hazel McGuire and Miss Lizzie Swallow, of Waynesfield, accompanied by Mr. William Smith, spent Sunday with friends and relatives of South Lima.

Mrs. George Daniels has returned from Butler, Ind., where she was called several weeks ago by the death of her father.

Attorney G. L. Marble, of Van Wert, was in the city last night.

B. S. Porter will leave tomorrow morning for Cincinnati to attend the annual meeting of the stockholders of the John Church company.

SECOND

Regiment Basket Ball Team Has a Chance to Win.

The Co. I, Second regiment basket ball team of Kanton, now playing a series of games at Chicago for the national championship, are still in a good position to win first place, having defeated the New York team Monday. The battle will now be between Fondulac, Ravenswood, Kanton, and Steven's Point teams. The first and last named having been once before defeated by the company I team, they think they can win out.

EIGHT BELLS.

"Eight Bells" will be presented at the opera house, this evening. There is no villain in Hyman Brothers' rejuvenated "Eight Bells," but there is plenty of fun, trick scenery, good music and clever specialties. The pieces have been seen here so often that little need be said in praise of its many excellent features. All the former successes in the way of trick effects are retained and many new things added. It still presents the great revolving ship scene, the trick wagon, the bustling octopus, the weird trunk, doors and chaise, and numerous new features. Incidentally a number of pleasing specialties are introduced. No one can help but admire the fine acrobatic work of the John Byrne troupe of acrobats.

No matter how long you have had the cough; if it hasn't already developed into consumption, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will cure it.

FINDLAY

May Have the Band and Mandolin Club

But the Lima Woodmen are Satisfied With a Team That Can Win the Money.

A challenge has been issued by the drill team of the local camp of Modern Woodmen to the Lima team for a contest for points says the Findlay Courier. If Lima wins they will get a sum of money which Deputy J. B. Rosenberger, of Findlay's camp will put up. On the other hand, if the extremely probable happens—that is, if Findlay wins, H. W. Bowen-Smith will part with an equal sum of money.

Inasmuch as Findlay has the largest hall, the contest will be held here. Lima, as a city, has always been in competition with Findlay, and this feeling extends down even to its lodges. The Lima M. W. of A.'s have no band, no mandolin club, nothing—but a drill team and an organ.

There are now fourteen men on Bishop Camp's drill team and four more will shortly be added. The contest will be held within the next two months.

AGAIN

"Biz" Mackey and "Kid" Boop Will Meet.

Arrangements Made for Another Bout at Findlay Friday of This Week.

"Biz" Mackey, of Findlay, and Kid Boop, of this city, will settle all questions as to superiority in a scientific glove contest for points at the Davis opera house, in Findlay, Friday night. Arrangements were completed several days ago but have just been made public.

About three weeks ago, says the Findlay Courier, these fast and furious little glove shovers met and after six rounds of lively upper cutting and ducking, the referee announced his inability to decide as to which one of them was the better. Inasmuch as a diamond studded medal is to be awarded to the best man at the coming contest, a decision will be necessary. The medal to be given to the winner is a marvel of beauty and is manufactured of solid gold, set with a magnificent diamond. It carries with it the honorary title of "Champion bantam weight boxer of the great state of Ohio."

Both Mackey and Boop are in excellent trim and are confident of victory. A number of Boop's admirers may accompany him to Findlay on the occasion of the meeting.

Ko-We-Ba canned goods at Diamond Bros. only.

Coe & Westbay, of the Arcade sample room, near Central avenue, on Market, always greet you in a pleasant manner, and they handle the best wines and liquors on the market.

Antiferous Bearings in Siberia.
The marquis of Queensbury, Prof. Holloway, the well-known geologist of Cardiff, and Prof. Truway, engineer expert of Canada, are about to examine the Siberian gold mines of Schilka and Yeltonkha, belonging to the emperor of Russia, which a London syndicate, with a capital of £1,000,000, is to farm. These auriferous bearings cover an area of 5,000 square miles.

Congressman's Baseball Marks.
Congressman Wadsworth's hands are battered out of shape nearly as much as were those of the late "Silver" Flint and from the same cause. The New York man was in his day a crack baseball player and at one time held down first base in the Yale nine. He has a son who filled the same position for Yale and was as good a player as his father.

Big Product of Mohair.
It is estimated that there are about 400,000 Angora goats in the United States and that our annual production of mohair is about 1,000,000 pounds. Although very little has been said or written about Angora goats during the last forty years, they have been extensively bred in the western states and territories, especially in Texas, New Mexico, Nevada, Florida, California and Oregon.

Methodist Twentieth Century Fund.
Medals are to be given to the contributors of the Methodist twentieth-century fund. Those giving $5 or more in excess of last year will receive a bronze medal bearing the face of John Wesley; Sunday-school scholars giving $1 will receive a gilt medal with the face of Francis Asbury, and donors belonging to the Epworth league will receive a bronze medal of Bishop Nind.

WHAT IS QUARTIS?

A dull, throbbing pain, accompanied by a sense of tenderness and heat low down in the side, with an occasional shooting pain, indicates inflammation. On examination it will be found that the region of pain shows some swelling. This is the first stage of quartis, inflammation of the ovary. If the roof of your house leaks, my sister, you have it fixed at once; why not pay the same respect to your own body?

You need not, you ought not to let yourself go, when one of your ovaries holds out the helping hand to you, and will advise you without money, and without price. Write to Mrs. Pinckham, Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your symptoms.

Mrs. Anna Astor.

Thomas. Her experience in treating female ailments is greater than any other living person. Following is a letter from a woman who is thankful for avoiding a terrible operation.

"I was suffering to such an extent from ovarian trouble that my physician thought an operation would be necessary."

"Dr. E. Pinckham's Vegetable Compound having been recommended to me, I decided to try it. After using several bottles I found that I was cured. My entire system was toned up, and I suffered no more with my ovaries."—Mrs. Anna Astor, Troy, Mo.

AN ATTORNEY'S SARCASTIC.

He Easily Nullified the Judgment of an "Expert."

One of the older members of the bar tells this anecdote of the late Severn Teackle Wallis, as illustrating the cleverness and sarcasm of Mr. Wallis, says the Baltimore Sun. Mr. Wallis was defending the will of a wealthy testator, and, as the lawyers say when the estate is large a lawyer "will wrestle with a will with a will." A prominent physician as called to testify for those contesting the will. The doctor became restless under the lengthy and exhaustive cross-examination of Mr. Wallis, and finally he petulant exclaimed: "Oh, Mr. Wallis, I believe the testator was insane!" Mr. Wallis kept his temper and said quietly: "Doctor, you are the first person who has ever intimated in or out of court that the testator was insane. Why do you say he was insane?" "I believe," the doctor replied, "that every man is more or less insane on some one subject." "Is it your deliberate professional opinion," Mr. Wallis then asked, "expressed here in court under oath, that every man is more or less insane on some subject?" "Yes," the doctor replied. "I will say here under oath that from my reading, knowledge and experience I believe that every man is more or less insane on some one subject." Then Mr. Wallis said, in that firm tone of sarcasm for which he was noted: "Doctor, has it ever occurred to you that you are insane on the subject of insanity?" Immediately the doctor fired up and exclaimed: "But, Mr. Wallis, I am not insane." Mr. Wallis arose and said: "Doctor, according to your own sworn theory, you must be insane on some subject. I pronounce you insane on the subject of insanity." Court, jury and spectators laughed aloud, and nothing more was said about the testator being insane.

Mr. J. W. Patterson, police at Nashua, Ia., says: "In January I had a very bad cold on my lungs, and used half a dozen different cough medicines and prescriptions from two doctors, but grew worse all the time. I finally bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and after using two-thirds of it, I was entirely cured."

H. F. Vortkamp, cor. Main and North streets.

A Millionaire's Helplessness.

W. K. Vanderbilt's million-dollar yacht called at Savannah, Ga., recently, being nearly out of coal, 700 tons of which were waiting to be put on board. Rain was falling heavily that day and the negro laborers could not be induced to put the coal into the hold. In vain did the captain storm. All ship owners looked alike to the colored men, who refused to work until the sun shone out some time next day.

NIGHT WAS HER TERROR.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but when all other medicines failed, three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, la grippe, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at H. F. Vortkamp's drug store, cor. Main and North streets.

The Canada Otter Is Probably Doomed to Extinction in New England at Least—The Strange to His Burrow Is Under Water.

Like gran'ma used to do. I tell you what, I'm goin' back; I'm sorry 'at I came; Th' way you treat a little boy like me is jus' a shame! You shake me an' you scold me, an' you never kiss me, too, Er ever take me on your lap— Like gran'ma used to do!

Jus' 'cause I take a cookie er a spoon o' jam er so, Er try the tart's a-coolin' in th' winder in a row, You whop me 'stead o' smilin'—never say, "Take one er two," That "all sich things is made fer boys"— Like gran'ma used to do!

Jus' 'cause I ketch a chicken er teach Tabby how to swim, Er tie a string on Rover's ear an' ride around on him, You jaw me 'stead o' sayin' that you "really never knew A boy so fond o' animals"— Like gran'ma used to do!

Jus' 'cause I go a-fishin' in th' trough behin' th' barn, An' use a cane an' button-hook an' some o' your red yarn, You shake me 'stead o' bringin' me an apple, mebbe two, An' tellin' me to "persevere"— Like gran'ma used to do!

I'm goin' back to-morrow where I'm alters treated good, 'Cause you don't love a little boy th' way you really should; You never giv' me nothin' nice, er call me "dearie," too, Er tell me I'm a "comfort"— Like gran'ma used to do! Francis W. Sterns.

The Canada Otter.

The Canada otter is another of the animals probably doomed to extinction, in New England, at least. In its own beautiful coat it carries its death warrant, and the greed of man and the vanity of woman have supplied the executioners. The otter sleeps in the shadow of a steel trap, and swims with a shoogin in its wake. Were he profitable like the Norway rat, he might survive even under these conditions, but he is not. The Canada otter has but one litter of young each year, and there are usually but two or three young to a litter. The consequence is that the animal has already been exterminated in many places, and is now quite rare in most parts of New England. If you can imagine a very, very thick snake, between four and five feet long, mounted on four short, stumpy legs, with webbed feet, with a roundish head, and short ears, and covered all over with dark, glossy brown hair, you will have some idea of what a Canada otter looks like. He is not quite the same color all over, as the under parts are usually a shade lighter than the upper, and the chin and throat are a dirty white. Under the long, glossy hair, which covers almost the whole body, is a fine, soft, water-proof fur, nearly equal to that of the beaver. He also has a stiff bristly moustache. His home is usually in a burrow in the bank of the pond or stream he inhabits, with the entrance under the water. It is often protected by being made among the roots of an overhanging tree, and is generally safe from rains and floods. The nest consists of an abundant supply of grass, leaves, soft bark and sticks, and several otters often occupy the same nest. In the northern states and Canada the young are born about the middle of April, but in the middle and southern states they often appear a month earlier. The otter feeds chiefly on fish, which he pursues through the water with marvelous speed and agility. Occasionally he may be seen rising wet and shining from the river with a fish in his mouth. Sometimes he will come out upon the shore to eat his prey, or, if there is the half submerged trunk of a fallen tree lying in the stream, he is likely to crawl up on to that. Though the otter is well supplied with teeth, the severe tests to which he puts them wear them out in time. In the young animals the canines often project beyond the lips, but in old specimens all the teeth are found to be very much worn, sometimes down to the gums.

But the life of the otter is not all work by any means. He is naturally of a playful disposition, and though the patent reports may not show it, he is the inventor of the toboggan. Tobogganing has always been his favorite sport, and he sometimes indulges in it for hours at a time. For this game he and his companions select a high snow-covered bank. Up this they toil until they reach the top. As the first one arrives he turns round, lies down, bends his fore legs backwards, gives himself a push with his hind feet, and away he goes down the hill, "bellywhoppers," as the boys call it. He is followed by a second, a third, and a fourth, in rapid succession, and when they have once got the hill packed, they "keep the pot a-bollin'" until they are too tired or too hungry to play the game any longer. In the southern states, where snowbanks are not to be found, they make their slides of wet mud, and seem to enjoy the fun just as much.

The habit of the animal is taken advantage of by trappers, who sometimes set steel traps near the bottoms of slides for the frivolous-merry-makers to get their feet into. Others set traps on the submerged parts of slanting logs which lie in the streams, and as the otters attempt to climb out of the water they are caught.

Young otters are easily tamed and are said to make faithful and interesting pets. In Sweden and other parts of Europe they have been kept in captivity and trained to catch fish for their master.—E. H. Baynes.

Vandy's Natural History.

Of all the dangerous animals which a boy can meet at night coming home from the grocery, a rhinoceros is the worst. Without the slightest warning, and with anger terrible to see, the rhino will charge him and catch him on his horn and assassinate him for no other cause than that he is a boy and has perhaps been throwing stones at a cat. If the rhinoceros were as plentiful in this country now as 2,000 years ago, the loss of human life would be something awful.

There was a time in America when a woman could not go to the kitchen door to shake a tablecloth without seeing a rhinoceros standing around. They went about in great droves, plowing up the ground with their horns and fighting everything that came in their way, and only the elephant could stand before them. If the weather hadn't changed they would be here yet. It got so that it was winter about half the time, and, fearing that if he stayed around he would have to shovel snow, the rhino packed up and went off to Africa. He is not a happy animal in his native state. Some one called his father a liar before he was born, and he goes around trying to find out who it was and ready to lick anybody who says good morning to him. It makes him mad to think he can't climb like a monkey or run like a zebra, and every time he sees an ostrich doing a cakewalk tears of rage gather in his eyes. He gets up mad and goes to bed ugly, and it is no wonder he has no friends. Many of the natives of Africa perish every year on the horns of the rhinoceros. They go walking along reading their Bibles or singing gospel hymns, all unsuspecting of danger, and the first thing they know they are spit on the horns of a rhino and become angels. No matter how good a native is or how many wives and children he has to support, the rhinoceros will not spare him. Like an avenging demon, he stalks in some dark thicket and at the proper moment springs out, with a fierce cry, and the bloody deed is done. The rhinoceros in a state of captivity is just as bad as when he is free. You may feed him on Bartlett pears and cut loaf sugar but you cannot win his gratitude. If his keeper scratches his back with a stick, he will hump it up and seem to bestow his affection, but he cannot be trusted. Just as soon as he gets the keeper around to the right spot he will take his life without giving him one hour to repent of his sins. There have been keepers who have whispered words of cheer and friendship into the ears of the rhino and others who have walloped him with a baseball bat and stabbed him with a pitchfork, but it was all the same to the animal. I have drawn a picture of the rhinoceros as you will find him in his African home. He is about to charge upon a native village and reddish his horn with the blood of the guilty and innocent alike. When a boy stands before a rhino in captivity, he should not feel hard toward him. The rhino was born that way and can't help it. He was neither made for an elephant nor a hippopotamus, and it must worry him all day long as he ponders over it. It may be that way down in his heart somewhere he has a store of affection and that some day a keeper will discover it with a pick axe, and therefore we ought to use him well and hope for the best. I had forgotten to say that when a rhino charges on innocent village the ground trembles beneath his feet, and all nature cries out in alarm, while the dead and wounded people make up such a liberal picture of slaughter that strong men have to turn away their heads and women fling themselves down and weep. Let us all be glad that we are not rhinoceroses.

Artist and Painter.

Among the many stories of Sir Frederick Leighton, the great artist, the following account of one of his holiday rambles is given. He noticed a sign-board being rudely painted by a local artist. The man, after a few moments, remarked that it was a fine day. Leighton agreed, adding that a figure on the sign-board was out of proportion. "Where be it out?" asked the aggrieved workman. "I'm thinking you have something wrong in your sight." "If you'll get off that ladder I'll put it right for you," replied the R. A. good humoredly. "Are, but can ye paint?" queried the other, doubtfully. "Ye know I don't want my work spoiled." "It's all right; I've done considerable painting in my time," answered Leighton, as the other clambered down the ladder. Then, taking the palette, he climbed up and commenced to paint, and did not stop until he had completed the sign board. "Well, that's not so bad," was the rural workman's comment. "Art is not so paying now, still, if ye like to do more work for me, I'll give ye more than I do as a rule." "Thanks," replied Leighton, "My name is Leighton." "Very pleased to know you, Mr. Leighton," replied the man, ignorant of what the name meant. "My name is Tam."—Youth's Companion.

PRISON ISLAND.

St. Helena Adopted by Nature for Its Present Use.

In the old days—not good old days—when East Indian men went round the Cape, St. Helena was a great port of call and of revictualing. It was prosperous then, and when in 1815 Napoleon the Great came there as a prisoner its prosperity was at its zenith. The government had no control over it. The island belonged to the East Indian company and it was only by an arrangement with the board of directors that it could have been used as a place of deportation for the mighty emperor. Why was it so well fitted for the purpose? It is in mid-ocean—1,600 and more miles from any continent. Its coast rises up in precipitous rock from the ocean. Escape, save at the risk of a broken neck, would be almost impossible. Only at one place—Jamestown, on the northeastern coast—could any boat hope to land, and even there only if the elements are kind. This is not always so. There is the roller season. Great rollers come in from the south Atlantic, and often for days there can be little or no communication between the anchored vessel and the rough steps at the end of an embarkation quay. What St. Helena was between 1815 and 1821 it is now, a safe prison. But its prosperity is gone. No one goes there unless compelled by necessity. Once a month a Castle Union steamer calls for a few hours, lands and takes off the mails, discharges one or two officials or receives them home-bound, and that is all. Thus did some casual travelers come to visit the other day. The governor was at the castle—a kindly Indian civil servant, certainly, ruling his little island on a moderate salary. There was a half battalion of West Indian troops under Major Westmoreland—splendid fellows in gaudy trappings—and a few gunners. How wistfully they looked at the travelers!

"I had a running sore on my leg for seven years," writes Mrs. Jas. Forest of Chippewa Falls, Wis., "and spent hundreds of dollars in trying to get it healed. Two boxes of Banner Salve entirely cured it." No other salve so healing.

Motherhood Restores Woman's Hearing.

Mrs. J. K. Robb, a deaf-mute of Greensburg, Pa., gave birth to twins recently and in a day or two began to hear dimly. She has steadily improved in this respect and now nearly every sound is audible to her. Physicians are unable to account for the circumstance. Mrs. Robb has already learned to pronounce simple words and there is no reason to doubt that she will eventually gain complete power of speech.

PRIMITIVE MAN.

He Was Probably of a Mongoloid Stock—His Color.

Professor Arthur Thomson of London has a new theory about the color of primitive man, a question which has attracted considerable attention in the fields of physical anthropology. While on the one hand it has been maintained that primitive man was fair in complexion, on the other hand it has been maintained that he was of a dark tint. "It is not necessary for us," says Prof. Thomson, "to accept the extreme position. . . . A middle course is open, as suggested by Dr. A. R. Wallace, who advances the view that primitive man was probably of a Mongoloid stock and that his subsequent modification into white and brown and black varieties was due to his migration into geographical areas where he was subject to the influence of varied conditions and climates. The temperature may be mentioned, diurnal as well as nocturnal. The moisture of the atmosphere; the nature of the soil; the diet; the manner of life, whether dwellers in dense forest or jungle—where, for example, the natives are screened from the sun's rays, or dwellers on the hills and plains, where they are most exposed to light and alternations of temperature. Freckles, which curiously enough occur most frequently on those with hair of a pronounced red color, do not differ in any respect from the pigmented skins of the darker races, except in regard to their color and their circumscribed appearance. In persons of dark complexion there is, in addition to the red, brown and yellow pigments, probably a very slight admixture of the black pigment. This may be present in sufficient quantity to impart a blackness in the hair, but not abundant enough to destroy the fairness of the skin, though in exceptional situations its presence may be very evident. It is curious to note that when the skin of a white man is grafted on to a negro the grafted patch assumes the normal tint of the individual, and vice versa, when black skin is grafted on to white the pigment disappears."

DR. SENECA'S LECTURE.

Physiology and Hygiene—The Circulation.

Dr. Seneca Egbert delivered the first lecture of his course on "Physiology and Hygiene" in the lecture hall at the Academy one evening recently. He devoted his attention to the circulation, relationship of heart and blood vessels, etc., and said, in part:

The circulation of the blood is maintained continuously, and for the most part by the action of the heart, which is a physiological force pump, but the elasticity of the arterial walls, muscular contractions and respiratory aspiration all assist in keeping up the onward flow. The current is slower in the capillaries than in the arteries and veins because of the increased friction in the former, and because the combined sectional area of the capillaries is much greater than that of either arteries or veins. The slower flow of blood through the capillaries prolongs the physiological interchange and action of the blood as it passes through them. The high blood pressure in the arteries is due to the frictional resistance in the individual capillaries and to the overfulness of the vessels. These factors in turn convert the intermittent injection and flow of blood from the heart into the arteries into a steady flow without pulse in the capillaries. The pulse volume is from 2 to 7 fluid ounces. If 3½ fluid ounces, the entire blood of the body will pass through the heart in about fifty beats, or in less than one second. Hence the rapidly with which a person may bleed to death when a large artery is cut.

The return or back flow of the blood is prevented by the valves of the heart, which are most adequately designed for the purpose. The sounds of the heart beat on listening over the cardiac region of the chest are due to the action of these valves, in addition to which the "first" sound is also partially due to the muscular contraction of the ventricle walls. The habitual use of alcohol or other drugs that stimulate the heart tend to do harm, because they increase the strain upon the heart and lead to its hypertrophy. Proper physical exercise, on the other hand, is beneficial, and tends to improve the tone and condition of the heart.

BUSY "BEST PEOPLE."

They Assist Whitecaps, Lynchers, Raiders and Other Lawbreakers.

Anyone who thinks "our best people" have an easy time of it is mistaken, says the Chicago Journal. They are always up and doing. The man who reads the newspapers will readily understand that. And they are usually doing those things that they ought not to be doing. Indeed, according to all accounts, "our best people" busy themselves principally with other people's business. Surely everyone must have noticed that the recent raids in Kansas were conducted by "some of our best people." They were the ones who rallied to Mrs. Nation's support; they were the ones who, inspired by her example, wield axes and hatchets in localities that she overlooked. But Kansas is not the only state where "our best people" have been busy; not by a good deal. They had a hand in the last lynching reported, for the truthful correspondent asserted that "some of our best people" were foremost in the crowd.

That's always the way. No one ever heard of a man being tarred and feathered, or of a drug store being wrecked, or of a whitecap outrage being perpetrated, or of the prerogatives of the law being usurped in any way, that "some of our best people" were not involved in it. They seem to be most perniciously busy all the time, and the ordinary prosaic, matter-of-fact, law-abiding citizen has reason to be thankful that he does not get mixed up with them. According to present indications the term will soon be one of reproach, and to shoot a man for calling you "one of our best people" will be justifiable homicide.

Why Massachusetts Is Rich.

The report of the state tax commissioner of Massachusetts shows why the people of that state are rich, says the New York Times. The total valuation of the capital stock of corporations in that state is $841,654,125, with nearly $100,000,000 not counted because of litigation. The value of the land and machinery of these corporations is $349,355,129. The aggregate of the taxes assessed on this property is $5,155,160. Massachusetts is a poor state naturally. Her people encouraged and developed manufactures with the result stated. If the farms are abandoned, the mills are filled. There is a lesson in this—dividends!

DOOM OF ICE MAN.

Abbydross Ammonia Machine Developing Into a Household Utility.

While ice combinations are forming, and independent concerns are springing up here and there, to compete for the patronage of the household during the months when the mercury indicates itself near the top of the scale, the inventors are busy trying to solve the question of refrigeration in a way that will break the hold of the ice man, and make the preservation of perishable articles of food possible by a less sloppy and troublesome method than that of the present. The search for this process has been persistent ever since the anhydrous ammonia ice machine demonstrated its success and became indispensable in breweries and cold storage warehouses. The difficulty in the path of inventors was that of power. The ammonia could be used to produce cold in household ice boxes, but this would not be economical unless provision were made for the recondensation of the ammonia after it had lowered the temperature by rapid evaporation. It is now reported that an electrical inventor has succeeded in providing this necessary power, and that ice can be made in the household at much less cost than it can be furnished by the ice companies. The machine is operated by a one-horse-power motor, and it is said will produce 1,200 pounds of ice in twenty-four hours at the low cost of one dollar. If the report in regard to this invention is well founded, and it is reasonable to expect an early development of the anhydrous ammonia machine into something of household utility, the reign of the ice man will soon be over. The electric light and power companies will run wires into the refrigerators and sell power that will enable the housewife to keep a small storage chest in her kitchen. The improvement will displace the ice box with the ice man, as a small chest well packed with sawdust will serve as a refrigerator. There will be no more leaky ice chambers and no more worry because of forgetfulness on the part of ice men incident to contact with good-natured restaurateurs while saloon boxes were filled.—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

He said that without the aid of these it would have been almost impossible for him to have made the trip.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

ORDER

Is Issued by Judge
Cunningham

Stops the City

Temporarily from the Collection

Of the Special Assessments
Against East High Street
Property.

Attorneys Leete & Brotherton and Richie, Leland & Roby Begin the Injunction Proceedings.

This morning attorneys Leete & Brotherton and Richie, Leland & Roby, on behalf of the owners of property abutting on the line of the east high street paving improvement, filed a petition in common pleas court to have the city of Lima restrained from the collection of the special assessments that were recently levied against the property mentioned for the payment of the paving of the street from Main street to the right of way of the D. & L. N. railroad. The issuance of a temporary restraining order was granted by Judge Cunningham and the action was set for its hearing on March 22, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The action commenced by the two law firms is the result of the allowance by the city council of a heavy bill of extras that was submitted by the contractors, Spyker & O'Brien. The petition that was filed this morning names Milton C. Craig, F. A. Holland, Robert Hill, Loren Stamets, James Porter, Adam Winemiller, John Moyer, George W. Moyer, Lloyd E. Kepner, Charles L. Lantz, C. C. Shephard, W. D. Mitchell, C. A. Jackson, Grace Catt, G. E. Copeland et al., as the plaintiffs and the city of Lima, the city council and city clerk, C. E. Lynch are the defendants. The petition is very lengthy, being type-written upon fourteen pages and contains, among others, the following allegations: That about one hundred owners of property abutting on the line of the improvement have a common interest in the subject matter of the action; that the contract for the construction of the improvement was awarded to Spyker & O'Brien, who were, by the terms of the contract, required to use Townsend paving block of a certain standard of quality that was provided for in the specifications but that the brick used were not uniform in texture, were not all of the maximum degree of hardness and were not all annealed as to reach the ultimate degree of toughness, and that many of them were soft, crumbly, and imperfect and unfit to be put into the said improvement.

The plaintiffs further aver that in the preparation and construction of the improvement the contractors did not make the crushed stone foundation to the depth of eight inches as required by the contract and did not spread the crushed stone in three separate courses nor give each course separate wettings and rollings.

The cost of the improvement was $25,541.37, and the plaintiffs aver that was wrongfully included in that sum was a large sum for crushed stone, that the sum wrongfully included the value of paving block of the kind and quality required, by the contract and wrongfully included a large bill of extras in the sum of $362.39.

Attorney Brotherton, in order not to be prejudiced in the above action filed a separate petition praying for a restraining order to prevent the collection of the assessments against two lots owned by him on the street, and this order was also granted.

Monday evening Mrs. A. Harrod was the hostess for the Sorosis club, who surprised her by presenting her many tokens of esteem, because it was one of her birthday anniversaries. The principal gift being one which all joined in giving a pretty salad dish.

The Misses Hershberg, will entertain the Whist club tomorrow evening.

AFTER EFFECT OF GRIP

Are Often More Serious Than the Grip Itself.

Physicians and grip sufferers alike are agreed that the after effects of the disease are more to be feared than the actual attack; you can never be sure that the disease has left the system completely.

La Grippe naturally attacks the weakest organ and leaves it still weaker.

Not only pneumonia, consumption, bronchitis and throat trouble follows the grip, but kidney, liver and stomach are troubles just as liable to result, provided any of these organs should happen to be in a weak condition at the time of attack.

To get rid of the grip germ, to get it entirely out of the system and blood, few remedies are so good and none safer than Stuart's Catarrh Tablets; they are not a compound of powder and dangerous drugs, but a pleasant, palatable, convenient remedy in tablet form, composed of the wholesome antiseptic principles of Eucalyptus bark, blood root and similar germicide remedies which are perfectly wholesome and harmless to the system, but death to the germs of grip, catarrh, consumption and diseases of the throat and air passages.

Mrs. Chas. Gormley, of Memphis, says: "Last winter an attack of the grip left me with weak back, a persistent cough and loss of flesh and appetite and after using various remedies for several months with little or no improvement, I finally bought a 50 cent package of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at my drug store and as they were pleasant and convenient to take, I used them at all times of day or night and I was astonished to secure such fine results from so pleasant and convenient a medicine. In two weeks my cough disappeared, my appetite returned. I improved in flesh and color and no one would now think that I ever had such a thing as the grip."

"My druggist told me he sold more of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, for the cure of grip, colds and catarrh, than any other similar medicines."

Train dispatcher Packard, of the C. H. & D., has not been well for some time and expects to get relief by taking treatment at the Missouri school of osteopathy. He will make an extended trip also, going to Beaumont, Texas, where he has a brother-in-law who is general manager of 2,000 acres of prospective oil lands, receiving a salary of $5,000 a year. Packard expects to see something of the country, as his relative has transportation over 37 different lines. With such a chance to hunt up changes of climate, Packard ought to get his digestive apparatus in shape without having his body hammered every day by the osteopathic doctors at Kirksville.

Saw the Show.

Fred Issleib returned today from a visit with friends in Chicago, says the Huntington News-Democrat. His trip was for business and pleasure combined. While in Chicago one night in company with M. Burgess, the popular Erie conductor, Mr. Issleib visited the Great Northern theater, where Robert Fitzsimmons was showing. All the seats were sold, and it was a case of stand or get something fixed. Issleib was equal to the occasion. He took Burgess up to the head usher and, before Burgess knew what was happening, had introduced him as the secretary of the state of Ohio. After making some inquiries concerning the manner in which the prize fight struggle in Ohio was straightened out, an arrangement was made by the usher whereby Issleib and the secretary occupied two of the best seats in the house.—Marion, Ohio, Exchange.

Don't Like the Brotherhood.
Considerable excitement prevails in Chicago, Burlington & Quincy circles over the discharge of a number of engineers here and in Quincy and it is represented that others are under investigation. The discharged men represent that they were discharged because they joined the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen and claim that some of them were allowed no hearing. It is claimed that 100 firemen are liable to be discharged for a similar reason. The brotherhood men are not thoroughly enough organized to resist the company's action, and the company has enough extra men to supply their places.—Gallesburg Journal.

A Forgotten Law.
The first breath of the next campaign was heard here today, when Attorney-General Sheets resurrected a forgotten statute and brought suit to enforce the penalty of $1,000 on railroad companies who employ conductors who have not had at least two years experience in running a train. The Big Four is the defendant company, and it is charged with having had Daniel Creamer in its employ since 1890 as passenger conductor, said Creamer having had no experience in this line previous to his employment. The law under which the suit is brought was passed by the legislature at the instance of the Order of Railway Conductors, and General Sheets' action is probably designed as a test of the constitutionality of the law.

Kayler's Successor.
A delegation of 25 or 30 railroad men of Columbus called upon Governor Nash Tuesday afternoon and urged him to appoint S. A. Stack as successor to R. T. Kayler, the present state commissioner of railroads, whose term expires. Mr. Stack is at present yardmaster for the Big Four, and is held in very high esteem by all who know him.

White Light Must Go.
At a request of engineers bills have been introduced in some of the state legislatures providing for the prohibition of the use of white light for signals.

A white light under the present code of signals indicates safety. The red light is the danger signal on all roads, to indicate caution.

The reason the engineers want the use of the white light prohibited is that when the glass in a switch light is broken any of the signal lights show white, indicating safety. If white were abolished and some other color substituted if a glass in a signal lamp were broken the appearance of a white signal would indicate a damaged signal.

Some of the roads have abolished white as a switch signal. The B. & O. and Chicago and Northwestern use only green and red, the former for safety and the latter for danger.

Clarence Mitchell, to remain at Burkettsville over Sunday, where Mr. Mitchell is preaching in a revival with about 50 additions in one week, 31 additions in two nights. Those uniting, Rev. Lawrence reports, are nearly all heads of families.

GO TO DAYTON.

The Antioch Shrine club, of Lima, will leave for Dayton tomorrow, Friday, March 15, at 9:20 o'clock. They will have a special car on the regular train, No. 1.

THE ADDRESS

Of Rev. Christian Should be Heard by Everybody in Lima.

Let the lovers of liberty, of justice and of fair play, turn out tomorrow evening, and listen to an educated negro discuss the negro question. Nothing grander can be said of an individual, than that he was a just judge. No one can form a just estimate of the negro situation, unless it is looked at from every view point.

The Rev. Christian is able to discuss the question intelligently and without prejudice, defend his race.

CONSUMERS

USUALLY RECOGNIZE

MERIT.

FACTORY SMOKER TEN CENT CIGAR

Costs the retailer more and is the best value on the American market for the price. It is not handsome to look at, being roughly made, as our object is to retain quality.

FOR SALE BY the following dealers in Lima, Ohio:—

The Lima Club.
A. Koch.
Joseph Goldsmith.
Wm. Melville.
W. H. Cahill.
T. Morrison.
Negelspach Bros.
W. B. Halm.
Brooker & Courson.
Pochel & Dennis.
Chas. L. Ackerman.
A. Miller.
T. N. Cunningham.
Baker & Guncheon.

The quality and price does not permit us to advertise as extensively as are some cigars on the market. We believe all that is necessary is to call the attention of the consumer to it.

A CARD.

I see by the evening Times-Democrat of today, my name has been announced as a candidate for council of the Sixth ward. It has been done without my consent, and I positively decline the kindness of my friends.

Very respectfully,
FRED E. HEROLD.
